Reprinted from The Cut Flower Quarterly - Vol. 6, No. 2

The following table is a listing of herbicides which have 1994 labels for use on the indicated flowers. Labels, for as many herbicides as could be obtained, were checked for listings of the various flowers. The same active ingredients may be packaged under other names, and the list is not all-inclusive. No comment is offered as to effectiveness or risk of crop damage, as these may vary between specific situations.

Use the table as a starting point in your weed control efforts. Herbicides are not a total cure for all your weed problems, but should be apart of an integrated weed control system, which may also include mulches, cultivation, a hoe and the three-finger method.
